GOOD NEWS

"Hi! It's me!"
"Hi there - how are you?"
"Fantastic. I just finished my last application.
So, let's go do something. Can you come over?"
"I really can't . . . I still have two to go. This is such a pain - I can't believe that you're finished . . ."

"Hey! We won! Isn't that awesome?"
"You serious? They're ranked third in the state!"
"So what! We killed them. Central Mass Champs right here - for the third time."
"Who do you have to beat to win states?"
"I don't know, probably the same as last year."
"You might ever do that!"
"Yeah - we might . . . "

. . . . . .

"didn't you hear? He asked her out, finally -"
"Are you serious?"
"Yes, isn't that incredible?"
"Omigosh - what did he say? What did she say? Tell me all the details . . . "

. . . . . .

" . . . alright, it's all set. I got the car. You have the directions, right?"
"Yeah, he just gave them to me a minute ago. And if they are wrong again, we'll stop at that gas station."
"Okay - I'll pick you up around six. The concert is supposed to start around 7:30, but I heard that it started late last night . . . "

. . . . . .

" . . . this morning we'd like to start off the announcements with a few words of congratulations . . . "

. . . . . .

Okay, do you want the good news or the bad news first. The good news: the '87 Yearbook is finally done!

But–

You are sitting at a desk, surrounded by twenty other students who are bent over their exams. You can hear the scratching of pencil on paper, the sighs of frustration, the rocking of an unbalanced chair. Your eyes wander onto the desk top in front of you. "The Clock" has been carved in by a black pen, and an intricate geometric pattern has been started in the corner. Your eyes wander back to your paper, and with a start you realize it is only half-completed. Your feet begin to tap impatiently and you try to concentrate . . .

There are all kinds of problems you must encounter in high school, it seems. From challenging you body's capabilities to challenging your mind's proficiency, quite a bit of energy and hard work is necessary to excel.

What else does it take? Here are some words we thought appropriate: Ambition, amelioration (look it up), and amiability; Balance, bargaining, and bearing it; Calmness, a calendar, and concentration; Decisions, dependability, and desire (!); Earnestness, ease, and eating; Fascination, flirting, and fun; Gangs, glory, and greenbacks; Hazards, hugs, and hypothetical situations; Impressions, improvement, and independence . . . And studying, snowboarding, scoring, and sleeping (see above).

- It takes a lot!

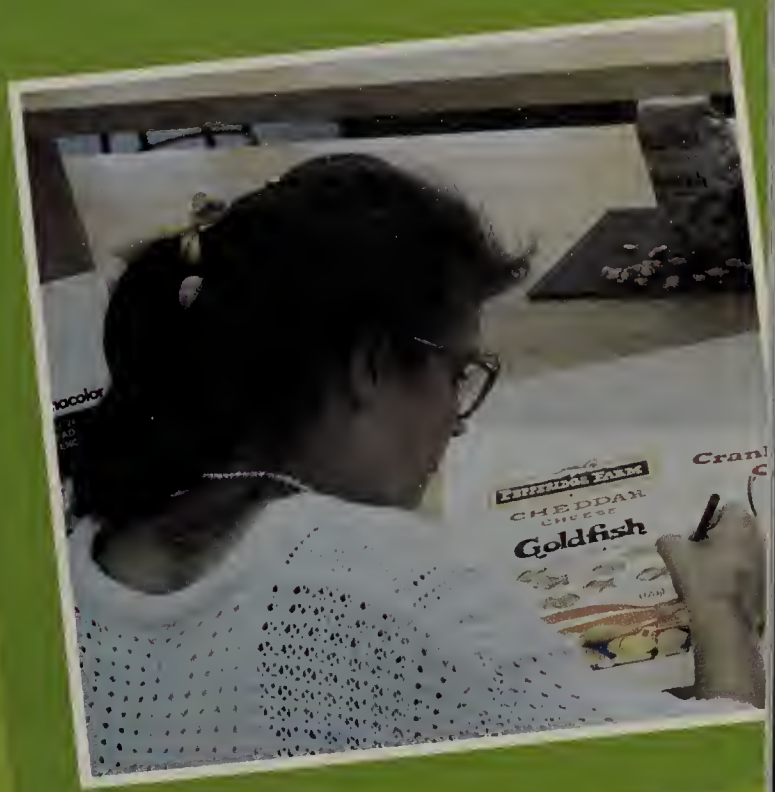
The lights go down and there is tumultous applause. The audience is standing and cheering as the curtain drags across the stage. As soon as the velvet meets with a final soft thump, the elation overcomes the actors on stage and they run off to change, high on the thrill of performance.

Steve and Pete taking '5'!

Performance counts



As she sprints toward the line of people, she becomes conscious of another runner a step behind. Her feet are burning and her leg muscles ache, but she gropes for the last drops of energy in her body. She crosses the line first, gasping for air, and her teammates surround her . . .

The scritch-swish of polyester-clad legs rubbing against each other moves along the aisle. The class is silent as it awaits the results of the test. Seconds tick by slowly and your ankle itches but you can't break the suspenseful stillness to sctatch it. The limp stack of papers is only a seat away. A groan of disappointment is heard behind you and the cause is now at your seat. You take your exam without looking up and turn it over carefully. Relief washes over you . . .

We've all felt the thrill of performance at some time, whether its on the field or the phone, in the Art room or in the snow. One of the best feelings in the world is succeeding at something after working long and hard at it. And having a lot of fun in the meantime. After all

"People rarely succeed at anything unless they have fun doing it."
-LaRocheFoucauld

And that is what performance is all about.

Glance around you in the cafeteria. Look up and down the halls between classes. Peek into the library and check out the parking lot. Wherever you look, the mixture is startling.

GET A TASTE OF IT!!

Just as a first impression, there might seem to be ten different types of students. Then, becoming more familiar with these groups, you realize that they can be broken down into at least three times that number. As much as anyone hates to admit it, there are groups of people that stick together. But that's not all bad! Because within every "group" are a bunch of individuals who are liked for who they are and what they do. The only trend seemingly followed by all Wachusett students is individuality. However, the fact remains that no matter how different and opposite the students are, everyone melds successfully together to forms the biggest group of all - Wachusett!

So turn the page and look through our Yearbook, see your friends and your class, your teams and your fun. See what we've done, together. This is Wachusett, MAKING ITS MARK . . .

"Hey how was your summer?"
"Not bad, how was yours?"
"OK, What,d you do?"
"Worked mostly"
"Ya, I went to Hampton Beach for a couple of weeks. I met some new people, slept late, and just lay on the beach. How 'bout you?"
"I went camping with my family for a week."
"Really? Where abouts?"
"We went up to Maine. It was pretty cool. I did a lot of fishing and hiking . . . Too bad it's over."
"Ya, I'm kinda bummed about that too."
"Just think this year we'll be seniors!"
"That's right, before you know it we'll be checkin' out our new yearbook and thinkin' about how it was."

. . . and where are you?

The weekend has arrived! The time is 2:30 pm and the day is friday, the very last day of classes and teachers lockers and cafeteria food. Sighs of relief echo in the hallways and plans for the weekend are hurriedly made.

Probably, the most frequented are the movies, parties, and dances, although, some do prefer to dine on bread and water in the local slammer. Many will swish down ski slopes, tackling the moguls on a chilly Saturday afternoon.

Then, during the summer months hundreds will don sunglasses, grab the inflatable raft and head for the beach when the meterologist utters those important words, 'hot and sunny.'

You know you can survive at Wachusett if you can get away with . . . . .

- ☐ Running past the library before Mrs. Chase bags you for the nickel you owe
- ☐ Trying to get a quick snooze during class without Mr. Corriveau throwing a piece of chalk at you
- ☐ Having a cigarette in the smoking area without Mr. Tremblay catching you without your permission slip
- ☐ Coming in tardy more than three times without having to serve a d-hall
- ☐ Giving Dr. P a good story as to why you got pink slipped for skipping class and having him excuse you
- ☐ Sneaking a cookie out of the cafeteria without a worker catching you
- ☐ Parking in the school's lot without Bruce noticing that you don't have a sticker or special permission

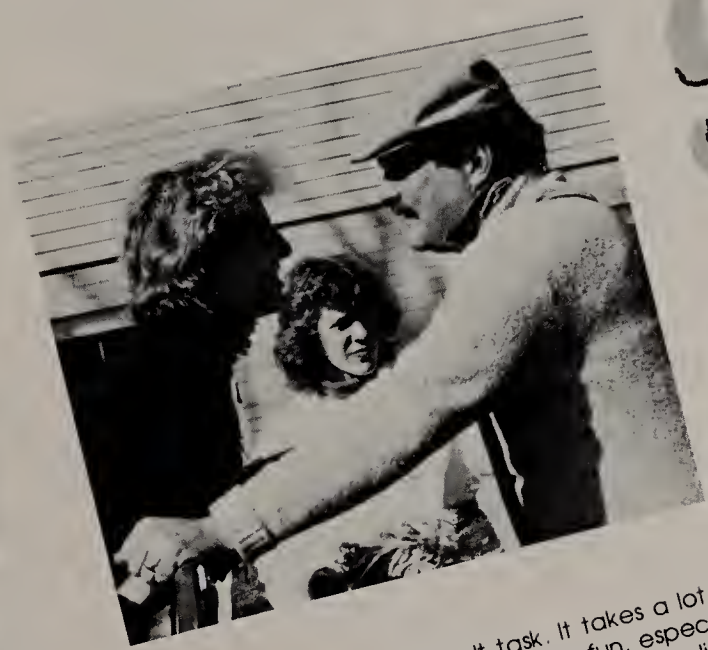
Surviving the 80's



LIVIN' ON WITH THE PARENTS

Living with anyone is a difficult task. It takes a lot of patience, compromising, and even a little sacrifice. This isn't always fun, especially when it comes to living with your parents. Having to share the same phone line, for example, may cause lots of problems. Parents seem to think that ten minuters per call is enough time for a conversation. It takes ten minutes before a conversation really starts rolling, and at least another half hour to forty five minutes before you're ready to hang up. Parents complain most about their children's messy rooms, their lack of getting homework done on time, and their child's choice of friends and girlfriend/boyfriend.

Getting a driver's license isn't as glorified as one may believe. Now we are asked to drive Junior to his baseball practice and on the way home "pick up a gallon of milk and a loaf of bread." There is no telling what may be asked of us in exchange for the family station wagon Saturday night. We are now forced to live in fear of punishment . . . our priveleges to borrow the car could be taken away at any time.

But there are good things that come along with the bad while living with your parents. They are always willing to give advice, and it's nice to have when you really want it. Who else faithfully comes to everyone of your football games or band concerts, rain or shine? Without their support life could be more difficult, not to mention lonely. And without them, we wouldn't be here at all!

SHOULD I??

Over these past four years we've experienced many highs and lows on our journeys towards adulthood.
The decisions we've made may or may not reflect our friends, our families, or our future. Which courses to sign up for, colleges to apply to or what to wear the next day of school are only a few decisions to make. The chaos and frustration of handling life's ever changing decisions, causes both enlightment and sometimes disaster, especially during OUR high school DAZE.

Senior Dress Code

What are you going to be wearing today? A question most of us ask ourselves almost every day. But what can be said about todays fashions other than there is a wide range of flexibility regarding style, colors, accessories, etc . . . Nowadays there is no style that can be classified as the "typical high school look." Everything and anything goes. Almost anything can be worn and it won't be considered the "wrong" thing to wear. What a person wears reflects that individuals personality.

This look is known as the camouflage look and is very common at Wachusett.

One of the more common looks for the Wachusett female.

One of the more common looks for the Wachusett male.

This look is known as the mix and match look. You can achieve this look by borrowing clothes from your brother, mother, father, etc . . .

What a night!! Despite being held in town, well over 400 people enjoyed a dazzling night laid out splendidly in pink and burgundy. Close by at Holden Hills, with excellent food, fully colored and embellished decorations by the prom committee, including a full sunset, and great weather the setting was perfect. Almost everyone appeared to have a great time, despite the few who usually at each prom have a setback, such as sitting at the wrong table, or wear a gown that 'someone else' has on, but the atmosphere prevailed. The prom spoke for itself, for it appeared that not a soul 'let' the sun go down on theirself.

St. Mary's Church Hall, in Jefferson, was transformed into a regal dining hall with the royal court presiding. The dinner guests were entertained throughout the seven course meal with instrumental music by the wind ensemble and singing, dancing, and authentic theatrics performed by the Singers.

Educating the masses on alcohol

The purpose of S.A.D.D. Day or also called Alcohol Awareness Day is to educate the students on statistics and facts of alcohol and drugs and the consequences of mixing them with driving.

DRINKING + DRIVING= DEAD.

The day usually consists of speakers every period in the auditorium and all the speakers talk of thier experiences with alcohol. Then we have an all school pep rally outside on the front lawn concluded with a 1700 balloon release in celebration of life and in memory of the lives lost due to drunk driving accidents. Unfortunately because of the snow storm on the previous day April 29th which presented us with a foot of snow the balloon release and pep rally were cancelled. Hoping for better weather next year guys!
The 30th of April began with a representative from Doctors Hospital. presented us with a movie on the effects of corporate advertisement of alcohol and of sublimal advertising that entices your subconscious to want alcohol.

Fourth period brought us the Assistant District Attorney from Worcester. He told us the lowdown on the legal aspects of driving under the age, transporting, and driving under the influence. Which interested the students enough to ask him legal questions.

I believe the most well recieved speaker was from Rutland Heights Hospital. He opened up to the audiences and told us personal experiences he had as a drug addict and alcoholic, how he got help and became a counselor, and how we can get help for ourselves and the ones we love. A freshman Kevin Heir helped Fred out by asking questions and stating his opinion. Kevin was a hit.

The famed Celtic star Satch Sanders, a spokesman for the Governors Alliance Against Drugs, put the point across that you have to think about your future, that its alright to say no, and self respect and confidence will give you the right choice. Freshman Kevin Heir made his second appearance and said to the audience while pointing at Satch, "What I see is cool." And Kevin was definitely right. Satch answered every question from "Why do you even bother?" supplied by Doug Chapel to "How did you get the nick name Satch?".

The last and most locally prominent speaker was Kay Dudley the president of the local chapter of M.A,D.D. (Mothers Against Drunk Driving). She openly shared their families personal tragedy of their daughter Karen, a Wachusett graduate, who was killed by a drunk driver. She brought in a couple of emotionally impacting films and hung around after to talk to S.A.D.D. students and to pose for a Landmark photo.

If it had not been for our 5 diverse, interesting, and totally dedicated speakers the day would have been a bust because of the balloons.

Each year S.A.D.D. Day is held and if this one day a year can maybe influence one student to take the keys away from a friend then it is all worth it. DON'T BE STUPID! PLEASE DON'T DRIVE DRUNK!

Wanna take a chance on your health?

How can you tell if you are in good health. Your body feels good, you eat right, your exercise is adequate, and you feel in shape, but is there more. How's your stress level? Do you have any harmful habits? Do you know where resources are if you need one or more? Most of all of us have similar issues at different times and for one day in the spring, this was the focus. Covering the main gym and hallway, demos, exhibits, info, and speakers attempted to address YOUR health. Not only did it prove informative, but it was also very enjoyable. Take a chance!

Junior Prom

This years Junior Prom was held at the Worcester Marriott, on May 9th. Four hundred and twenty people attended this formal engagement out of that two unnamed people jumped in the pool. The theme was "Lean on me", and the band performing was Motion. However the highlight of the evening was the group photograph taken of fifteen of the most beautiful girls in attendance. "Lean on me" was definitely a night to remember especially because there were no accidents recorded.

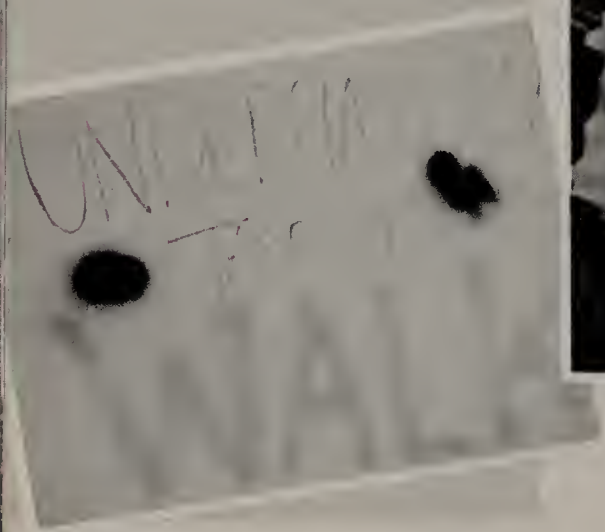
RELAYS



Someone might have told you at one point in your life or another, 'It's not whether you win or lose, but it's how you play the game'. Though the sportsmanship is and usually is excellent up on the track, when you pit one Wachusett class against another, they, and everyone else goes for blood. Involving a large number of race participants, both male and female, the race proves to be popular. As one can expect with a dominant class, the members of 87 prevailed. Seniors pictured are J. Wallat (top left), C. Lane (top right) and M. Zola (right)

'Celebration of the Arts' . . .

Wachusett's greatest strength is its diversity, or its many interests. Seven years ago, a night of celebration was started to recognize and honor those students, who in some cases are rather unnoticed, who maybe draw and paint, write, sing, act, perform, or are just great scholars. As you can see here, a variety of things happen in this twilight annual May evening, such as a few musical selections (left), student council awards (below), safety kids awards (bottom), a jazz selection (bottom), or just a breather between awards (middle left). All in all, it is a rewarding night for many deserving performers.

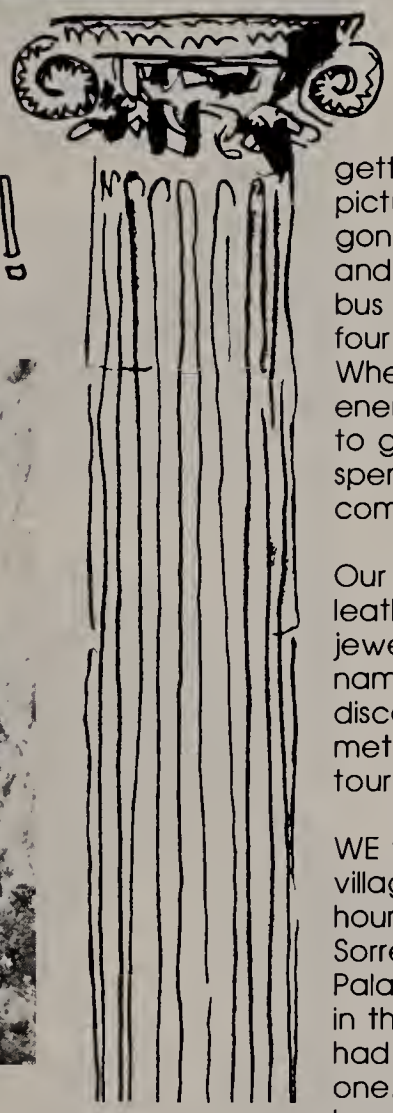
A trip to the old country

CIAO!



On our first day in Italy we went to "The Queen of the Adriatic" -Venice For some of us it was a beautiful night going through the canals on a gondola. and for some of us it was pure hell! After getting off the water bus about half us stopped to take a picture. When we turned around to find our group they were gone. We all panicked and said that they would come back and get us. So we decided to wait where we got off the water bus for them, hopeing they'd come back. Well we waited for four hours there until we decided to go back to the mainland. When we got there we had realized that we had a few enemies on the tour because everyone was on the bus ready to go over two hours before we got there! The next day we spent in Venice again. It was just beautiful. There is nothing comparable to it in the world.

Our next stop was Florence. All of us (except two) bought leather coats here. It is also the place to by very nice gold jewelry. WE went to a glass factory and met a beautiful man named Fabio. While we were in Florence we went to our first disco, The Supersonic! It was great. While we were there we met a group of Australian men who were going on a 64 day tour all through Europe.

WE then went on tours through the countryside to small hilltop villages like San Gimignano, Siena, and then we made our 12 hour journey through Italy to the Mediterranean resort of Sorrento. We stayed at a beautiful hotel called the Sorrento Palace. It had an indoor pool that had cliffs around it and it was in the bar. The pool outside was so huge. It was one pool but it had seven parts to it! The drive to the hotel was a beautiful one. We had to go around the ocean and there were these huge cliffs and we all thought we were going to crash because of the turns in the road. . We went to the island of Capri the next day and we couldn't go into the Blue Grotto because the tides were too high. So we went to the very top of capri which is called Anacapri. There were beautiful flowers and stores everywhere. It was very nice and the views were breathtaking. The very next day we went to Pompeii. The whole city was once covered by lava, after the volcano Mount Vesuvius exploded. Then we were off to our last stop - Rome.

When we got to Rome we visited the Vatican, the Sistine Chapel, the Colliseum, the Forum, St. Peter's Basillica, the arch of Constantine, and last but not least a McDonald's. By that time of our trip we were all dying for a hamburger and fries. But something about the hambergers didn't taste right, most of us only took a few bites. Then we walked to the Spanish steps and made our way to the Trevi Fountain. Otherwise known as Three coins in the Fountain. It is said that if you throw in a coin over your left shoulder with your right hand you will return to Italy. All 9 of us did it at the same time and agreed to return to Italy in four years.

Italy was so beautiful that we wanted it to last forever. We will always remember the friends we met, and the times we, but most of all we will cherish the time the nine of us spent together in Italy during April of 1987! CHOW!!!

ITALY

On April 17, 1987, our plane landed in Milan, Italy. The next day we went to Venice. Venice, and in particular, Razza San Marco, (or Saint Marks Square) was a picture book of history. Everywhere you could see the ancient mixed with modern. We sat at a sidewalk cafe. and sipped our cokes in the shadow of St. Mark's Cathedral. That's how Italy was. Everywhere you turn, the modern and the ancient mingled, side by side, holding hands, making a path between what was and what is.

Two thousand miles from reality perched above the trees at Maho Bay, 10 of us spent a week away from it all! We awoke early to the smell of the jungle and the chirping of birds. The luxurys of home were not there and the showers were cold (but since the weather was always in the 80's we didn't mind).

During the days we were on the beach by 10 ready for a day of getting baked in the sun. Besides sitting in the sun there was incredible snorkeling which was twice as good as the Boston Aquarium. The fish ranged from harmless pilot fish to not so harmless barracuda. This underwater adventure was unforgettable.

The nights were spent at native hot spots listening to the best reggae in the Virgin Islands. Joe and Timmy would've liked to stay and become real rastas.

The drinks were great, and it was a beautiful week. We all had a great time and we'd like to thank Pete and Ivy for all the fun we had with them.

Studying in the wilds of Maine

When we first arrived we were all strangers afraid to live with each other for a whole week. After the first night we all became best of friends and we share great memories! Thanks Mr. Rasku and Mr. Baer.

Alice in Wonderland

Behind the scenes

1987 proved to be an eventful year for the Wachusett 'players'. The running of 'Alice in Wonderland' brought them further in the state competitions than ever, and they were directed by newcomers Mrs. Melanie Donegan and Tanya Andrysiak. It proved to be a most positive experience, one that both the participants and viewers will remember.

EVENTFUL YEARS

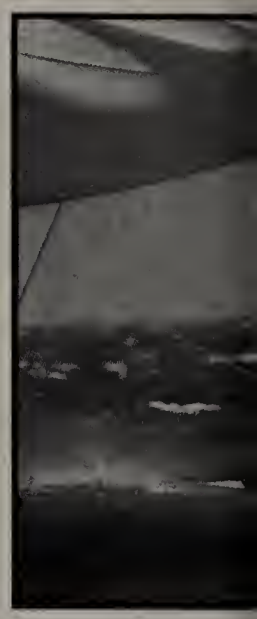
The years of 1986 - 1987 will always hold a special meaning for us. These years mark a very important turning point in our lives, as we leave High School and enter adulthood. We will always have fond memories of friends, and our fun in High School, but we will never forget the events that shook and rocked our world.

The fitness craze swept our nation this year, as well as the return of protests to college campuses. This was also the year of the Cosby Show, Moonlighting, and the Irish rock band U2.

Unfortunately all our memories can't be as cheerful as these, for this year was also one of tragedy and scandal in our world.

The AIDS virus became a threat to our nation. We lost seven brave astronauts when the space shuttle Challenger exploded, with the first teacher to have gone to space aboard Christa McCauliffe. The world was shocked by the terrorist activities, and even more so when President Reagan sought military retaliation against Libya. The melt down at the Chernobyl Nuclear Power Plant had the nations of the world concerned about nuclear contamination. And the popularity of a rock form of cocaine called crack caused many deaths, including that of Celtics' recruit Len Bias.

The summer of 1986 was a time of celebration for our world and nation with events such as Hands Across America, the 100th birthday celebration of the Statue of Liberty, and the marriage of Britains' Prince Andrew to Sarah Ferguson.



This was also the year that the sunken luxury liner Titanic was found one mile beneath the surface of the North Atlantic. And the first non-stop flight around the world was made by the aircraft Voyager. The world sports was highlighted by the recapture of the Americas' cup by the twelve meter yacht Stars and Stripes, Sugar Ray Lenards' controversial victory over middle weight champion Mavin Hagler, the victory of the N.Y. Mets in the World Series, and that of the N.Y. Giants in the superbowl.

Our government encountered controversy over the Iran contragate scandal which was uncovered in the Tower Commission report. And the world of t.v. evangelism was shocked to find out about the corruption within the PTL club.

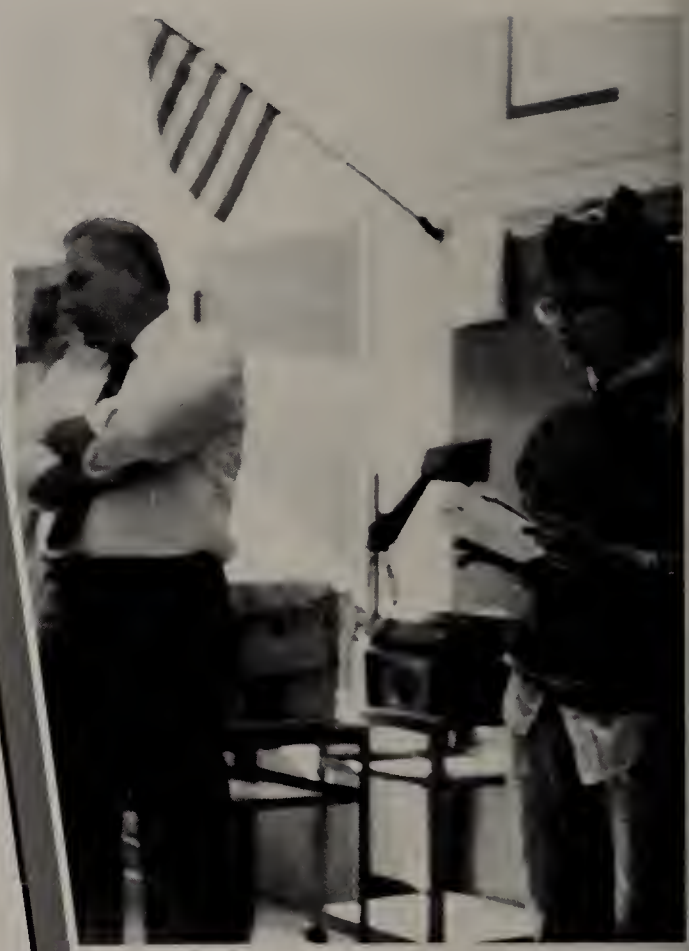
Academic News

The big issue in academics at Wachusett this year was exemptions. In order for a half-day exam schedule to be allowed, the state decided that all students must take final exams. Thus, the policy that exempt juniors and seniors from mid-year exams and final exams in a course in which they received a semester grade of at least 90 was terminated by the Administration, although the Academic Advisory Board favored the exemption policy. It was later decided to apply the exemption policy to second semester seniors, allowing seniors to be exempt from final exams.

For the most part, the student body continues to grumble about the loss of exemptions, particularly those juniors who had been looking forward to exemptions during their freshmen and sophmore years and were denied them when they were finally eligible. The faculty, however, tends to support exams for all students, so exemptions probably won't be making a return in the near future.

In other academic issues, the Academic Advisory Board voted to apply the academic requirements of the state for athletics and also to extracurricular activities. This means that in the coming year, a student must be passing at least four courses with a D grade to be eligible to participate in extracurricular activities, including school plays and musicals, school government, and club activities.

Wachusett has been, and continues to be, one of the most highly regarded schools in the state in terms of its academic program. Academics will always be the top priority at WRHS, and its graduates will continue to be accepted at the most competitive schools in the country.



What do you think of this, Mr. Groom?

A Tribute

to Peter Farrelly

People who work in the Central Office — the Superintendent's Office — of a school system are often enigmatic, almost invisible people to the students of the schools they serve. This is too bad because, in cases like Peter Farrelly, the late Assistant Superintendent of the Wachusett Regional School District/Union 64 schools, students miss knowing an unusual man! Peter Farrelly was indeed a rare individual who combined a love of life, with a love of family and a love of the job he did. He was one of those very rare human beings who could fight as hard and as tough for the educational principles which he espoused and then, after the fight, could be as wonderful a companion and friend as anyone. At his funeral the following words by Everson Williams were quoted to express just who Peter Farrelly was: "Friendship is a special blessing from above. It's the sharing of activities with someone who understands and cares. It's a warm ray of sunshine that fills our heart in times of need. It's the bringing out of beautiful things in each other that no one else looked hard enough to find. It is the mutual trust and honesty that lets us be ourselves at all times." Those few lines pretty well sum up Peter Farrelly and tell a lot about how much he will be missed!

Peter Farrelly's greatest love was working directly with and for young people. Some of his greatest memories were of the times he dealt directly with kids as a teacher and as a principal of an elementary school early in his career. He had many accomplishments as Assistant Superintendent of the Wachusett Regional School District but perhaps his proudest was of the huge part he played in getting the recent (1983) additions to the high school. He was particularly fond of the increased athletic and physical education space that these new additions included and he could often be found walking the "back forty"of the high school admiring our new fields.

Peter Farrelly was a family man! He leaves his wife Sue and his legacy of three sons — Peter, Jr., Sean, and Patrick. Certainly they will miss his quick Irish wit, his gentle ways and compassion for others more than anyone else but we at Wachusett have certainly lost a friend, a tireless worker in our behalf and a booster without parellel. In his loss we celebrate his life and the knowledge that it touched so many!

Who is really running the school?

Name a time in your life when you haven't had a favorite quote, or saying, or verse! It might have been a line from Dr. Seuss' 'Green Eggs and Ham' when you were six, or a line from 'Top Gun' when you were thirteen, or from Stephen King when you were seventeen, or Emerson, Poe, Abe Lincoln, or the like when you hit your twenties, thirties, and . . . . . Here are some quotes from the over twenty two crowd at Wachusett, the faculty:

"If you don't go out with the outgoing tide—the tide will go out without you"
—Jack Farley

"You see things as they are and ask 'why', but I dream things that never were and ask 'why not'?!!"
—Toby Snelson

"Forgive O' Lord my little jokes on thee, and I'll forgive thy great big one on me"
—Robert Frost (Cal Branche)

"If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away"
—Henry Thoreau (Roberta Chase)

"Leadership begins with the heart"
—Jeff Larson

"Don't hope for success—work for it"

"There is no greater dignity than in living within ones means"
—Calvin Coolidge (Dr. Edward Yaglou)

There is something for everyone in Business Education. One of the goals of the department is to provide training for all students in order that they can develop marketable skills whether they are going on to further their education or are going right out into the job market after high school.

Business Education has been offered to students since this country began. This educational career field has never been more important than it is today. Every prediction of where jobs will be, what new jobs will come, and what opportunities for employment growth can be expected to include a sizeable portion for workers with a business education background. With college increasingly become more and more expensive and with loans, grants, and scholarships becoming more difficult to obtain, a good solid business background can help pay for some of the costs of a post secondary education.

Courses in Data Processing, Word Processing and Accounting as well as traditional courses in typing are offered. Distributive Education, Retailing, and Advertising allow students to view the business world from the inside. Internships are available to eligible seniors with a variety of work study options.

Business Education need not be stuffy and boring. Take some business courses and find out how interesting, rewarding and satisfying they can be!!

Library

The library's two main purposes are to provide materials that help with courses and to encourage students to use libraries and to enjoy reading. Mrs. Chase, the librarian, and Mrs. Hanney, the assistant, run the facility with the help of Library Club members (around 40 to 70 students, who are volunteers). Normally the library also uses adult volunteers but unfortunately there have been none this year. The library has books, magazines, newspapers, art prints, pamphlets, some AV software, AV equipment including a microfilm reader, and a coin-op copier.; it is open from 7:30 AM until sometime after school (no definite closing time).

The Special Education Vocational Program was approved by the School Committee for the 1986-1987 school year, which added Mr. Greg Smith to the faculty on a permanent basis. New Vocational Program components included In-School Work classes in commercial cleaning which were held at a local job site and team teaching in the Business Department. Mrs. Norah Ferrie divided her time between the Vocational Program and the Work-Study Program, which she coordinated.

Mrs. Wendy Diamantopoulos began her maternity leave in November and a short time later gave birth to a baby girl. She was replaced by Mrs. Harriet Tarkiainen, who has contributed much to the Resource Room Program.

Together with technicians, Mrs. Liz Ott and Mrs. Sandy Kartono, Mrs. Jackie Davison has continued to refine the Study Skills Program. This year an aggressive effort was made to incorporate computer technology in the development of good writing skills.

Looking to the future, Mrs. Bev Myers, Department Chairpoerson, is working on course proposals designed to prepare special education students to live and work independently after graduation. This new direction of community education is an example of how the Special Education Department must continually adapt to effectively respond to the changing special needs of students.

With courses covering the fields of animal science, plant science, and agricultural mechanics, the vocational agricultural Department offers students the opportunity to develop skills needed for employment in our most important industry—the production of food and fiber. Students learn about the care and management of farm animals, fruit, vegetable and flower crops, and the opportunities available in those agriculturally jobs or 'agribusiness'. An intercurricular club, the Future Farmers of America (FFA), gives the students the opportunity to exhibit agricultural skills, leadership, and community service.

WACHUSETT REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT

1128 MAIN STREET
HOLDEN, MASSACHUSETTS 01520
(617) 829-6631

Dear Members of the Class of 1987:

I regard it as a real privilege to be asked to write a letter to each of the graduating classes of Wachusett Regional High School. It is a privilege for several reasons. First of all, it gives me a chance to thank each senior class for their unique contributions to the school and its traditions. Secondly, this letter remains a part of your collective memories of your high school years, and may be referred to many years after graduation from Wachusett as some of you seek to remember these days. Finally, it is a privilege because it is the student body that makes any high school, and this is particularly true of Wachusett.

The Class of 1987 has distributed itself in many ways over the last four years. You have achieved many things academically and athletically that will be the envy of many future classes, and indeed, you have set marks that subsequent classes will seek to equal or surpass. You class has participated in more district championships than any other class in Wachusett's history; your class had as many Merit Scholars and received as many Letters of Commendation from the College Board as any class in recent memory; your class continued the safe traditions of the SADD Chapter, and will always be known as a class that cared about each other.

As you look back at this book years after your graduation from Wachusett, I hope that you will remember us with kindness and with some appreciation. Certainly our mission here was — and is — to help young people grow in maturity and in knowledge so that the years after high school can be used to build upon a career, a dream or goal that you began to set during these years. I hope that some of you will take the time now or some time in the future to send a short note to a teacher or teachers who helped you in your search, and I hope that you will continue to support meaningful education for the young people of this country just as it was provided to you.

Finally, I wish each and every one of you the richest of lives. Whatever your hopes and aspirations, I hope that you attain them. These high school years are golden years, full of fun and growth, but they are also the springboard to adulthood and to what I hope for you is a rich and full life. With every class that graduates, each of us left behind sends a little of ourselves with you. Be true to yourself and set a straight course — it is your future and the future of this world that is at stake.

God Bless!!! And keep in touch . . . . . .

Often taken for granted by many members of the student body is the daily maintenance and repair of Wachusett's 'physical plant' but compared to other schools, ours always seems a step ahead. Heading the crew is Sy Sweet, supervisor, and Bruce Mercier and Howard Crow.

Even though most of us all 'eat' lunch every day for 51 minutes, or even if we don't, it is always on the table, or better, on the counter. Serving Wachusett for the last several years, and stepping down at the conclusion of school year '87 is Betty Tremblay, supervisor. Good luck in the future.

Serving one of Wachusetts, or any of our primary needs, hunger, are (front) A. Konkol, L. Comeau, C. LaTigne, R. MacDonald, and G. Merlin. In the back are P. Long, M. Oslebo, T. Morrow, and J. Chapin.

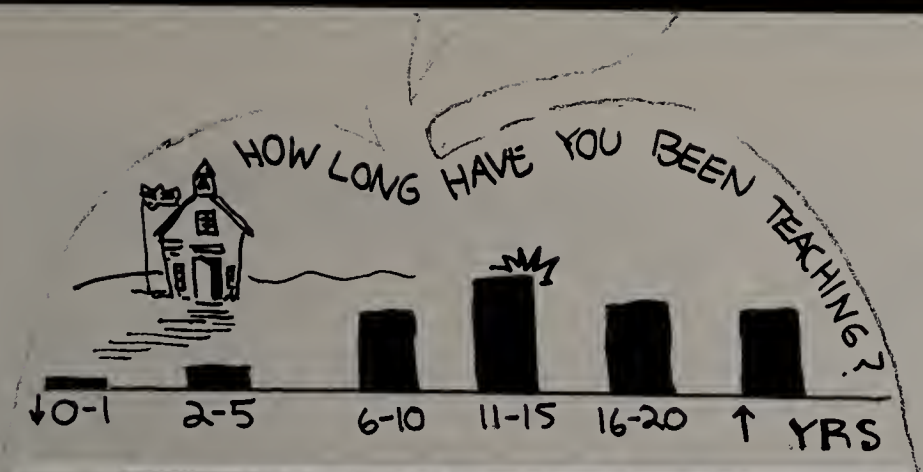
Teacher Teacher

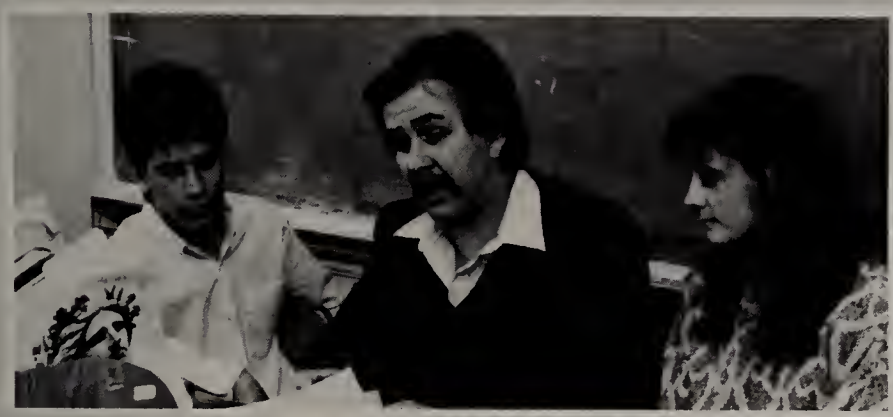
PARTING ADVICE

Over the years, many 'significant others', or people you have been close to have offered advice, hints, or giving you needed boosts in many instances. Some may be too long ago to remember clearly or it came at a time when you didn't want to hear any advice from anyone, anywhere, and at anytime. Teachers have often been both heard and unheard, but just in case you missed any helpful hints before you left, some Wachusett faculty members offer this:

. . . 'Be true to yourself and sensitive to all others . . . . . make the most of yourself . . . . . be happy . . . . . strive, reach for your dream . . . . . failing is only not trying . . . . . success is learning from your mistakes and trying again . . . . . reach for your dream and don't give up . . . . . don't compromise principles . . . . . love one another . . . . . live life to the fullest . . . . . don't be afraid to take a chance . . . . . ask questions . . . . . don't be blind to all the beauty that abounds around you . . . whatever work or interest you choose, be the best . . . . . aim high and go for it . . . . . make this world a better place, if you can . . . . . and GO GET 'EM . . .'

When asked the question, 'If you could meet somebody from the past, who would it be?', thoughts start reeling. Associations, admirations, character, etc. are mulled over and in everyone, there are those 'reference' individuals who stand above the rest in someones eyes for one of the aforementioned reasons. Who have you admired from the past? The '87 faculty were asked this question and the following names came forth:





What's your BEEF?!!

Grumbles, dispositions, things that don't click, bad days, pain in the necks, getting out of the bed on the wrong side . . . . The list goes on, but we all identify with some of the elements of the world around us that don't conform, or that we can't synchronize to, or that just plain rub us the wrong way. We all have some to irritate us, teaching included. Here are some of theirs: . . . 'things out of order . . . . . wrong bells . . . . . people not working to their potential . . . . . disrespectful students . . . . . people lying . . . . . people picking on other people . . . . . " " on board signs . . . . . kids not making use of their talents . . . . . people demanding rights but not accepting responsibilities . . . . . people not yielding at yield signs . . . . . excitement about 'static cling' or dog breath odors, and other world issues . . . . . those that feel the world, their society, school, and their surroundings has nothing to offer; open your eyes . . . . . kids chewing gum like 'cows' . . . . . people young or old who are bored with their lives, but refuse to try new adventures . . . . . flabby prose . . . . . mail in rebates . . . . . sporks . . . . . lazy students . . . . . people ignoring instructions, notices, etc., then complaining thar not one told them . . . . . righteous people . . . . . route 122A traffic . . . . . liars and cheaters . . . hypocrites . . .'

LASTING IMPRESSIONS

Impressions, influences, perceptions, feelings; all are elements that you receive from watching, or being associated with people. Now just think how we've impressed and thought of each other for the last four years. Every year the school loses another large group of people to the world, a group that the faculty gets to know. When asked the question, 'How has the class of '87 struck you over the last four years?', some of the responses that appeared are:

*A quiet class as freshmen but each year they have shown potential, but in a very reserved but capable way

*typical of the eighties—living too fast, too young, trying to do too many things, and needing adult direction

*Super—one of the best—active and responsible

*In the hallways, in my classroom, on the head, back, and arms

*Usually with books, swords, hammers, loud voices, and the occasional brilliant flash of light

The Green "D"

The 1986 Football campaign was a very successful one for the Mountaineers, as they finished with a 6 win 4 loss record. The senior dominated team did many new things this year, including beating Fitchburg High for the first time in seventeen years, and defeating Doherty for the first time in the school's history.

First-year coach Barry Finneron did a great job with a team that was in the Super Bowl race up until the ninth week of the season. Playing in a sports-rich fall season, the Mountaineers featured a staunch defense that notched three shutouts and narrowly missed a fourth. Co-Captains Jeff Wallat (leading tackler) and Jeff Lane (C.M.C. All-Star, interception leader) led the defense along with Ted Hale (Team M.V.P., C.M.C. All Star, reception leader), Paul Dunn (C.M.C. All- Star) Mark Bjorkman (C.M.C. All Star, leading rusher), Todd Donaldson (player's M.V.P., C.M.C. All-star), Matt Power (C.M.C. All-Star), Scott Puera (Coach's award), and standouts Todd Gunderman, Donny Donegan, John Pryce, Chris Stanton, and the only non-senior on the defense, Greg McNiel.

The offense was led by experienced quarterback Chuck Lane (C.M.C. All-Star), Jamison Shipley (C.M.C. All-Star), Kevin Stone (Coach's award), Joel Spakaukas, Rick Demare, Chris Jackson, Tim Gates, and six other underclassmen also played offense.

All in all, the team enjoyed a very successful season, and one most Mountaineer fans won't soon forget.

District Champs!

Boys' Varsity Soccer

With a record of 21-2-0 the 1986 Mountaineer soccer team achieved a level of success that was unexpected at the start of the season. The team's accomplishments included a third straight CMC crown, and the second District E and Central/Western Mass. titles in three years. In the State Championship game the team performed admirably, but lost by a 3-2 score in double overtime. Among the season's highlights was the outstanding goaltending of seniors Kurt Ruchala and Matt Setterlund, and the stellar defensive efforts of seniors Mark Hehir, Jeff Landgren, Tod Masterman, and Dan O'Brien, who were joined by juniors Mike Breed, Jim Marshall, Joe Ryan, and Jamie Simpson. The defensive unit yielded but nine goals and recorded 17 shutouts. The midfield was ably manned by seniors Steve White (tri-captain) and Doug Puffer, along with juniors Peter Gardula (tri-captain), Bob Gramling, Peter Sedgwick, and sophomore Doug Kartono. The forward line was led by Mark Zola, a senior tri-captain and the team's leading scorer. Significant contributions were made also by seniors Dean Leanna and Steve Rock, juniors Sal Paladino and Todd Whitford, and sophomore Matt Chasse.

In terms of individual honors, Zola was named to the Central Mass Soccer Coaches Association Division I team, the Telegram and Gazette super team, and the Division I All-State and All-New England teams. He was joined by Gardula on the CMSCA, T & G, and All-State teams. Also earning CMSCA All-Star status were Ruchala and White. Each of these players also received recognition in the Central Mass Conference, as did Leanna, O'Brien, Puffer, and Rock.

Led by senior captains Annie Lacroix, Lyn Dorman, Lisa Annunziata and Lisa Iuluano, the Girl's Varsity soccer team had another outstanding year. One of the highs of this fabulous season was beating Algonquin, who put us out of the district contention last year. The very next day we beat rival Holy Name! The strength of the sophomores, freshman and juniors must not go unmentioned, because they will certainly be one of the powerhouses of Central Mass. next year.

Although we lost on the first round of the Districts to a strong Nashoba team, we will never lose the pride of being one of the first few of many great girls' soccer teams to walk the halls of Wachusett.

The Girls Soccer Team had a 14-4 season playing against the strongest competition in the area. For the second year, the girls qualified for the District Tournament only to lose to a strong opponent. The Girls Soccer Program began two years ago and since then has posted a record of 30 wins, 5 losses, and one tie. With soccer talent available in the area, the program should be successful for many years to come.

The cross-country season: It is an intangible sum of our collective efforts. This past season started in late August. We, the runners, came to school a week early to run miles to nowhere on hot-baked roads. We kept going because we knew this had to get better. A few weeks later, we were finally in shape. Our future competitive success was totally unknown, and our racing season lay ahead of us like an untraveled woods loop. During this time of preparation, there were many poignant memories. We had fun together breaking new trails, decorating the locker room, and checking out the girls cross-country team. These are the things we'll remember more than the pain of the hard work. We'll remember Joe Bukley bragging about his capacity to overindulge in apple pie ice cream; tie-dyed Jerry Sherborne and Sean Grahm looking for the best shortcut along our route; Darin Jones offering sound advice about our tactical drill running. We'll remember the day we ran against one of the small city schools. We romped them with seventeen runners before they placed even one. With a totally different perspective, we will remember the race against St. John's. The few spots of green peeking out from a sea of red were enough to make us ask, "Why bother?" We'll remember Forrest Hopkins leading our team to victory against Fitchburg and then leaving his lunch on the finish line to show for it; Captains Glen Cavanaugh and Bob Willey "hoarsin' around" while leading warmups; the river in the Leominster course that claims shoes. We'll shudder when we think of the nervous knot in our stomachs on the starting line of Districts, when our coach is offering solemn advice. Over the season we grew stronger and grew to understand each other. To: Glen, Rob, Forrest, Spanky, Floyd, Jim, Sean, Jerry, Mark, Darin, Joe, and Jeff; remember all the fun we had together.

A Step Ahead

Girl's Cross Country

1986 was a very successful year for the Girl's Cross Country team. They were 11-2 in dual meets, won the C.M.C. Championships, placed third in the District All- Class Meet, and qualified for the State Championship Meet.

Led by Senior Co-Captains Kim Narcisi and Kristin Weathersbee, the team had unusual depth which, along with great team spirit, contributed to its success. Key performances included a win over Fitchburg to clinch the League Championship and a very strong effort in the rain-soaked District Championships, where the team was edged by four points for runner-up honors.

In addition to the captains, other departing seniors include: Ana Gregory, Kristin Helle, Rochelle Perry, Suzanne Curran, Suzanne Reidl, and Becky Bauman. The team M.V.P. was Cheryl Odoardi, and C.M.C. All-Stars were: Cheryl Odoardi, Kerry Pyle, and Robin Fales.

While the leadership and friendship of the seniors will be missed, they are confident that the winning tradition of Wachusett Cross Country will continue

The start of tha Wachusett Varsity field hockey team's schedule held a questionable future, but not for long. They proved themselves with an impressive undefeated record, and showed their teamwork and skill throughout the season.

After reaching District finals, the girls found themselves in a triple overtime situation, a repeat of 1985. But this year they pulled through, avenging last year's tough loss, and in their own die-hard manner, they clenched the District E title.

This year's seniors: Amy Bessette, Sherry Greene, Michelle Lachance, Jen Leosz, Christina Papale, Nicole Parent, Chrissy Sullivan, and Kim Weller have much to be proud of in 1986!

Incredible. Outstanding. Unbelievable. These are the only words to describe the 1986 season. Losing 9 players and faced with a rebuilding year, this group of girls pulled together, and developed their techniques and style of play. Working as a team, they earned the titles of Undefeated CMC Champions, Undefeated District Champions, and State Semi-finalists. These girls produced a much better record than I ever could have hoped for. Their never ending desire and hours of hard work to be #1 certainly paid off.

Eight Seniors will be graduating. Their enthusiasm and the team spirit will be greatly missed, we wish them the best of luck. Thanks to Kim Weller, Michele LaChance, Amy Bessette, Chrissy Sullivan, Christina Papale, Sherry Greene, Captain Jen Leosz and Captain Nicole Parent for leading our team to such success, and especially for giving me some of my proudest moments as a coach. Our season was Wachusett's best in many years. We played our best hockey towards the end of the season, when it counted. We were led by a fine group of seniors heading into the tournament. Steven White, Danny O'Brian, Jason Roche, Tod Masterman, Bobby Sachse and Paul Dunn all had exceptional games while playing in the tournament. They led their team into the finals before losing to the eventual state champs, St. John's. One reason we were so successful was because of the time and effort Coaches White, McDougal and Reynolds put in during the past season.

Nine sophomores and three freshmen combined talents to put together an enviable 18-2 record highlighted by two win streaks. After an opening game 3 point loss to Haverhill, the team streaked to 11 straight wins before dropping a heartbreaking 2 point loss at Leominster. Highlighting the win streak was a tough 73-59 victory at Fitchburg and a season high 82 points scored in a rout of Burncoat. Following the Leominster defeat, the team ran off 7 more wins consecutively to finish an outstanding season. During that stretch, the high point was undoubtedly the exciting 63-62 double overtime win at Doherty as Dan Deptula canned a 12 foot baseline jumper with 5 seconds remaining to seal the victory. A week later, the team played its finest game of the season before a packed home crowd as it routed Doherty 74-53. Throughout the season there were numerous outstanding individual performances, incuding game high 22 point efforts by Jim Hazelwood in the Fitchburg win and Chris Rogers at St. John's. In addition, Freshman Mike Myrdal finished the season with a consecutive foul shot streak of 14 still intact.

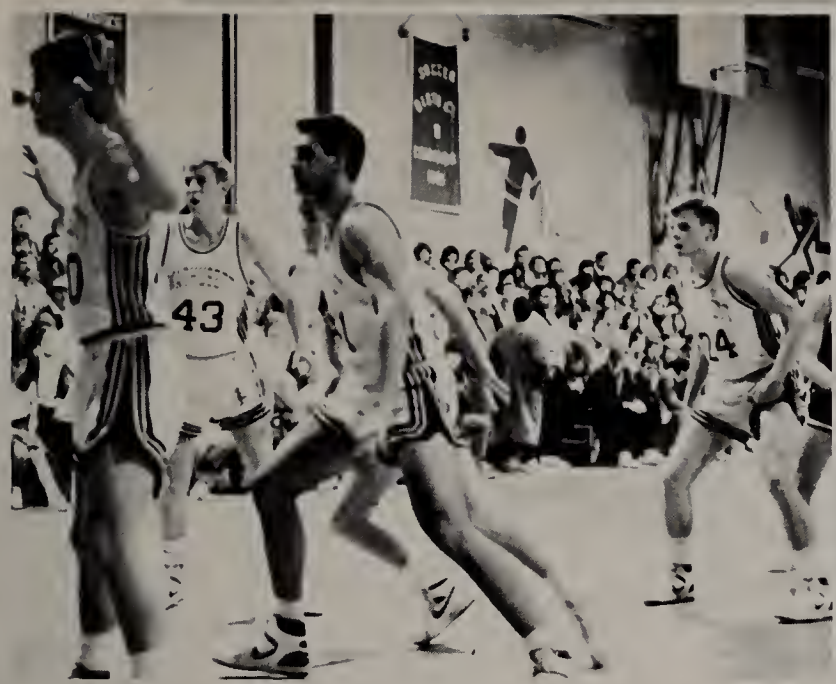
The Wachusett boy's basketball team had a tremendously successful season during the 1986-1987 campaign. They were able to win the Central Mass. Conference championship for the second year in a row. The team qualified for the District playoffs for the third time in the last four years. This strong quintet also won the Class A ratings championship of the Worcester Gazette for the second consecutive year. Finally and most importantly, the team won for the first time in the school's history, the District E title and competed in the state playoffs.

The won-lost record of 21-3 was the best of the recent era of straight Division I play. The graduating five of Scott Lindgren, Matt Power, Andy Burke, Brendan Keller, Paul Chang, Tom Lang, and Dave Bulkley all contributed to the revival of Mountaineer basketball over the last four years that brought the team to the high level it reached this year. A great program during the just completed season! A thank-you from the entire Wachusett community.



Dave Bulkley broke the previous scoring records held and became the first boy to pass the 1000 point mark in individual scoring.

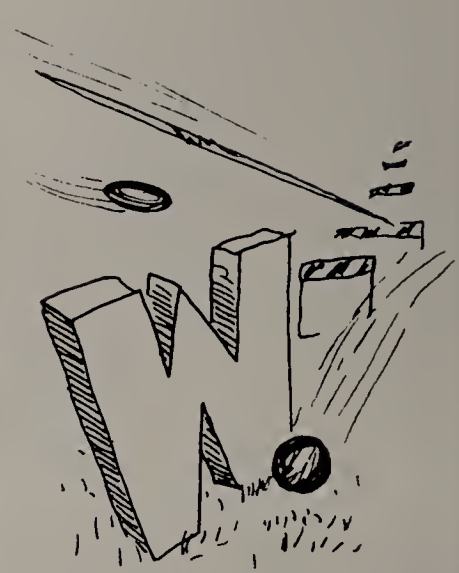
Field stars sparkle in '87.



The Girls Spring Track team, led by the tri-captains Kim Narcisi, Kim Cook, and Christine LeClair completed an eventful season with a record of seven winds and only one loss. Their success began by winning the Central Mass Conference relays and placing third in the District Relays early in the season. The team continued on a winning streak and set many new records along the way. The strong effort shown by upperclassmen Sue Reidl, Christine LeClair, Kristin Weathersbee, Ana Gregory, Kimi Cook, Kim Narcisi, and Rochelle Perry provided inspiration to other members of the team, They created a high team spirit and an eagerness among members to work so that the team would continue to be successful. The girls captured the Central Mass Conference title for the second year in a row. They then went on to take second place in both the District Class I Championship and the District All-Class Championship.

TRACKSTERS

Capture the District

The Boys Spring Track team has had it's most successful season in the last decade. We have destroyed every opponent who has come up against us for a perfect duel meet record. Even the powerful Leominster, St. Johns and Shrewsbury teams were conquered in their turn. Yet just when we seemed impenetrable, we finished a disappointing 3rd in the District Relay Meet. This only instilled a bit of healthy nervousness for the rest of the season. Captains Ted Hale, Scott Puera and Rob Klaiber overcame this bump and led us in sweeping up the envied District Class Title. The win a week later in the League Championships only affirmed our potency. Promise the team this, seniors: that you won't let any college jacket replace our Spring District Championship jackets. No one can forget the guidance of coach Warren. Although the team is sad to see him retire, We are proud to give an All -out sprint-for-the- finish effort for a season of glory.

Wachusett beat St. John's twice in the regular season and defending District E champs Doherty once. The team was led in singles by super sophomore Chuck Rubin, senior Dave Cranford, and senior Sean Graham. Doubles victories were achieved by Andy "Otis" VanAken and Rob Lavigne, and the first year team of seniors Steve Erickson and Dan "Sped" Spedding. The team was CMC champs but was edged out by St. John's by a score of 3-2 in the District E Finals in the scorching sun at Holy Cross. UNDEFEATED LINKSTERS

In late March, the golf team packed their bags, loaded Sparky's van, and journeyed to Cape Cod for preseason practice. After our return, we were all ready for our opponents.

However, Mother Nature intervened and 11 out of the first 13 matches were postponed. We all Remembered the week of rain, which flooded the courses, and the April 28th storm which covered them. Of the 20 scheduled matches, , 17 have been played. The Mountaineers accomplished an outstanding record of 16-0-1. For the first time ever, the golf team won the CMC Title. One of the local papers acknowledged this by placing it under a regular school match in fine print.

After a very successful season the team is looking forward to defending their District E Division 1 Title, and then on to thr State Championship.

On behalf of the team we extend our thanks to Coach Spakauskus, Holden Hills Country Club, and ti the Booster Club.

Headlines, titles, championships, and team spirit. Talk about a dominating sports front, the 1986-87 Wachusett teams collectively have pounced, ran over, overwhelmed . . . you name it. They have made their mark like no others have. Team records have been broke. Individual records have been calypsed. At the last writing, over 90% of the greens teams have had winning records, and between a half dozen and a dozen teams have copped championships, district titles, and a couple close brushes with state championships. Highlighting moments include Dave Bulkleys record year (left), and Fred Warrens last years with cross countr,' and track (below).

TAKIN' INTEREST IN WACHUSETT

Never at Wachusett would you go through a day and not find some group or organization meeting. Whether it be the concert band, the chess club, or the model UN, and if it is during activitiy period, afterschool, or evenings, the majority of people have some interest (s) here.

The Music Department is the essence of the performing arts at Wachusett. Under the direction of Mrs. Grace Reidy and Ms. Miriam Jensen, two choir and three instrumental groups perform music ranging from classical to contemporary, from madrigals to the 'messiah'. In four annual concerts, the concert chorus and concert band perform a combination of well-known and abscure pieces. The smaller, but advanced Singers and Wind Ensemble also perform at these concerts, performing music that often daunts the finest professional groups. However, the Singers, Jazz Band, and several small instrumental groups also perform for various clubs and organizations in and around Worcester County throughout the year. With the sucess of the groups in yearly competition, and the success of the individual performers in District, State, and New England competition, Wachusett proves itself to be a school of artistic, as well as academic achievement.

Who's really to blame for terrorist attacks? "Western imperialist nations like the U.S.", says Dan Fitzpatrick. (He's representing Libya.) Who's the cause of the continuing Iran/Iraq conflict? "Iran, of course", say Don Howard, Tracy Shimkus, and Mike Connell. (They, of course, speak for Iraq.) Which of the major powers is doing the most to halt the nuclear arms race? Darin Jones, Scott Brown, Amy Jasperson, Pam Fitch, and Sarah Sadowski believe the answer is the Soviet Union; while Mark Finneran is sure it's the United States. (It's easy to tell who they represent, isn't it?)

And so it goes in Model U.N. Club meetings and Model U.N. conferences such as Harvard and Clark Universities', as gritty, seemingly unsolvable world problems as well as sudden major crises cause confrontations among nations. What a great and compromise lead to apparent solutions!

Wachusett's video production club is but two years old but a core of interested members has allowed us to contribute the video portion of the annual 8th Grade Orientation Night in both years. Members learn how to set up for production shots under various situations, from interviewing the principal in his office to getting a shot of a crowded hallway. Setting up involves lighting, audio, camera positions, and a working script for shooting. Post-production work involves editing video and audio, adding music and voices over so that the finished product can be shown in a more perfect fashion.

In our first year, we had 23 members but cut that to the maximum of 10 this year so that each member can have the hands-on experience that is needed to insure successful productions. We look forward to next year, new members, and new projects.

Students Against Driving Drunk, is an organization that has become part of Wachusett's history since February of 1983, which host a S.A.D.D. day each year in which we have accident victims speak, mock trials, slide presentations, and a speech from our principal which ends with the release of 1,000 balloons. It's an organization that helps high school students understand the devastating results that can occur when one drives drunk. Because, when one drunk is let out on the road, it is not only their problem, but becomes a real problem for others. So remember: "Friends don't let friends drive drunk."

Goodbye Doesn't Mean Forever

Goodbye doesn't mean forever though we will go our separate ways, we will always have the memories of our Wachusett High School days.
Goodbye doesn't mean forever as we travel on life's road
the knowledge and love we have found here will lighten life's heavy load.
Goodbye is a word which is hard to say for where is the good in goodbye?
But as we turn and walk away and the tears fall from our eyes,
Remember the memories you have and keep them in your heart.
And when yoy grow sad of all you've left behind, remember my friends, goodbye does'nt mean forever.

-All my love to my class,
Tracy Michelle Stewart

Touch

Wendy Yankowski

Don't rush the minutes away
Awaiting something in the future.
Make today worthwhile for tomorrow;
Absorb the life and love given to you.
If you become cold go to the fire
And let it's warmth surround you.
If you become scared go to the light
And allow it to guide you.
Be a part of your friend's life
And let them be a part of yours.
Never be an outsider or you will become forgotten.
Be outgoing, let others see you shine
And you will be remembered,
If not by name then by the everglowing candle you lit along your way . . .

Standing at the end of the road
That we've come to know so well,
Where do we go from here
Is it true only time will tell?

Wher all going in different directions
Rarely do we go the same.
Some take the road to satisfaction
Some to fortune and fame.

Familiar faces, friends we've made
Are things we must leave behind.
It's the turning point in our lives
Another road only we, ourselves can find . . .

Making Our Mark
MOUNTAINEER

While at Wachusett, we go through stages. The nervous freshmen, the cocky sophomores, and the harried juniors. We all travel toward "seniorship." During the four years at W.R.H.S., we live a life that's a combination of school, friends, and family. It's not always easy to balance everything without going crazy, but most of us make it out of Wachusett in fine shape. Nonetheless, underclassmen have a lot of living to do and a lot of fun to have before facing the anxieties and responsibilities of being a senior. So here's to us, the underclassmen!!!

Right: Linda, leading on the parade.
Below: Two future Wachusett underclassmen clowns.
Far bottom: Erin and Julie, just two kids playing in the snow.

PRESENTING OUR FRESHMEN

The class of 1990 is unique and we are all individuals. coming in as freshman we were all in our seperate little groups from each of the towns. But as the year progressed we all began to mix and become friends. We respect each others ways and individuality.

We are all fimiliar with Wachusett, and now think of it as our home too. We don't feel like scared little freshman anymore. We feel like a part of the Wachusett family, and we all look forward to spending the next three years here.

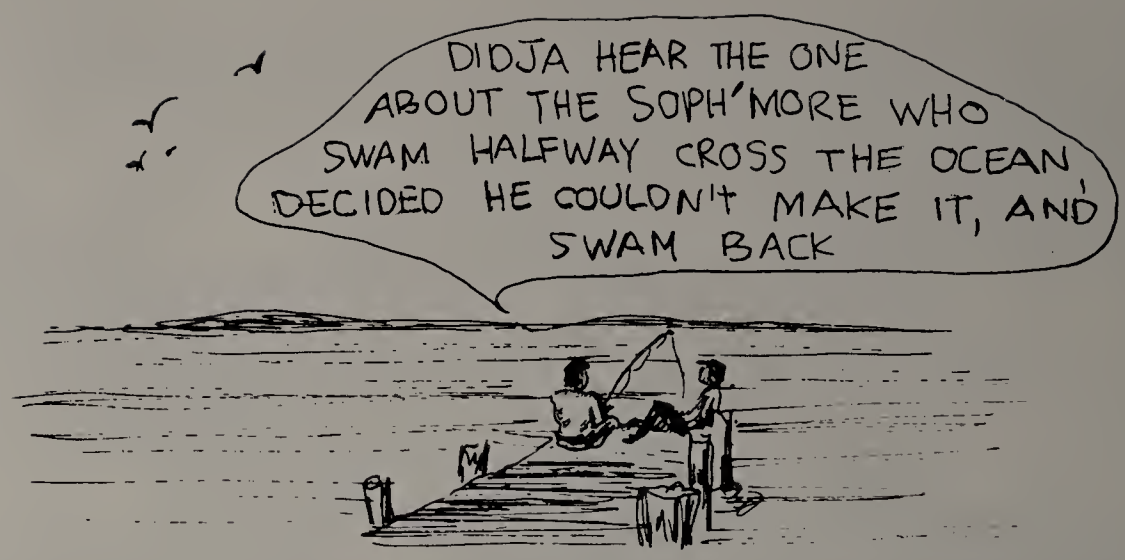
ONE STEP TOWARD THE TOP



The class of 1989 is probably the best and most interesting to have entered Wachusett in a while. We have promted enough class spirit that goes beyond what is needed to enjoy our high school years. Through all our activities, we have brought together each and every member of the class.

There is a good feeling among the students that gives them the feeling to succeed. The class of 1989 has this feeling. We have stuck together and contributed a great deal to Wachusett, which undoubtedly means a lot to the students.

It is important that we be remembered, not as useless sophomores but as hopeful and powerful individuals who have pulled our resources together to become a unified body. This outlook on the class sheds new light to the word family. With such strong feeling as these it is sure to stay with our memories throughout our lives

ONE MORE STEP

EIGHTY EIGHT = '88

We, as juniors, are at an exciting and frustrating time in our high school experience. We have many new privileges, from being able to go to a R-rated movie alone to earning our driver's license, but we are also faced with many difficult responsibilities. SAT's and Achievements sit heavily on the minds of college bound juniors. Others must face the reality of the job market soon after graduating. Nonetheless, there are many things to look forward to. We have our junior prom coming up and our class trip next year.

It really is amazing how far we as a class and as individuals have come since 1984. We've gone from being geeky freshmen and awkward sophmores to self-confident juniors. As a class, we're an extraordinary group.

Many juniors stand out in areas such as athletics, academics, and drama. Juniors keep busy in extracurricular activities like the Ski Club and the Model U.N. We've made our presence felt in every area here at W.R.H.S.

As highly competitive individuals, every honor (academic or otherwise) has been earned with hard work and honest sweat. We know it wouldn't be worth it any other way. We're a tough, bright group. We know where we're from and how far we've come. Our eyes are firmly set on the future.

Maybe, we're too good. They must have had a meeting to decide what to do about us. I can picture them, standing around and saying, "Hey, '88 is coming up. It's time we stopped exemptions. They're too good." They're right.

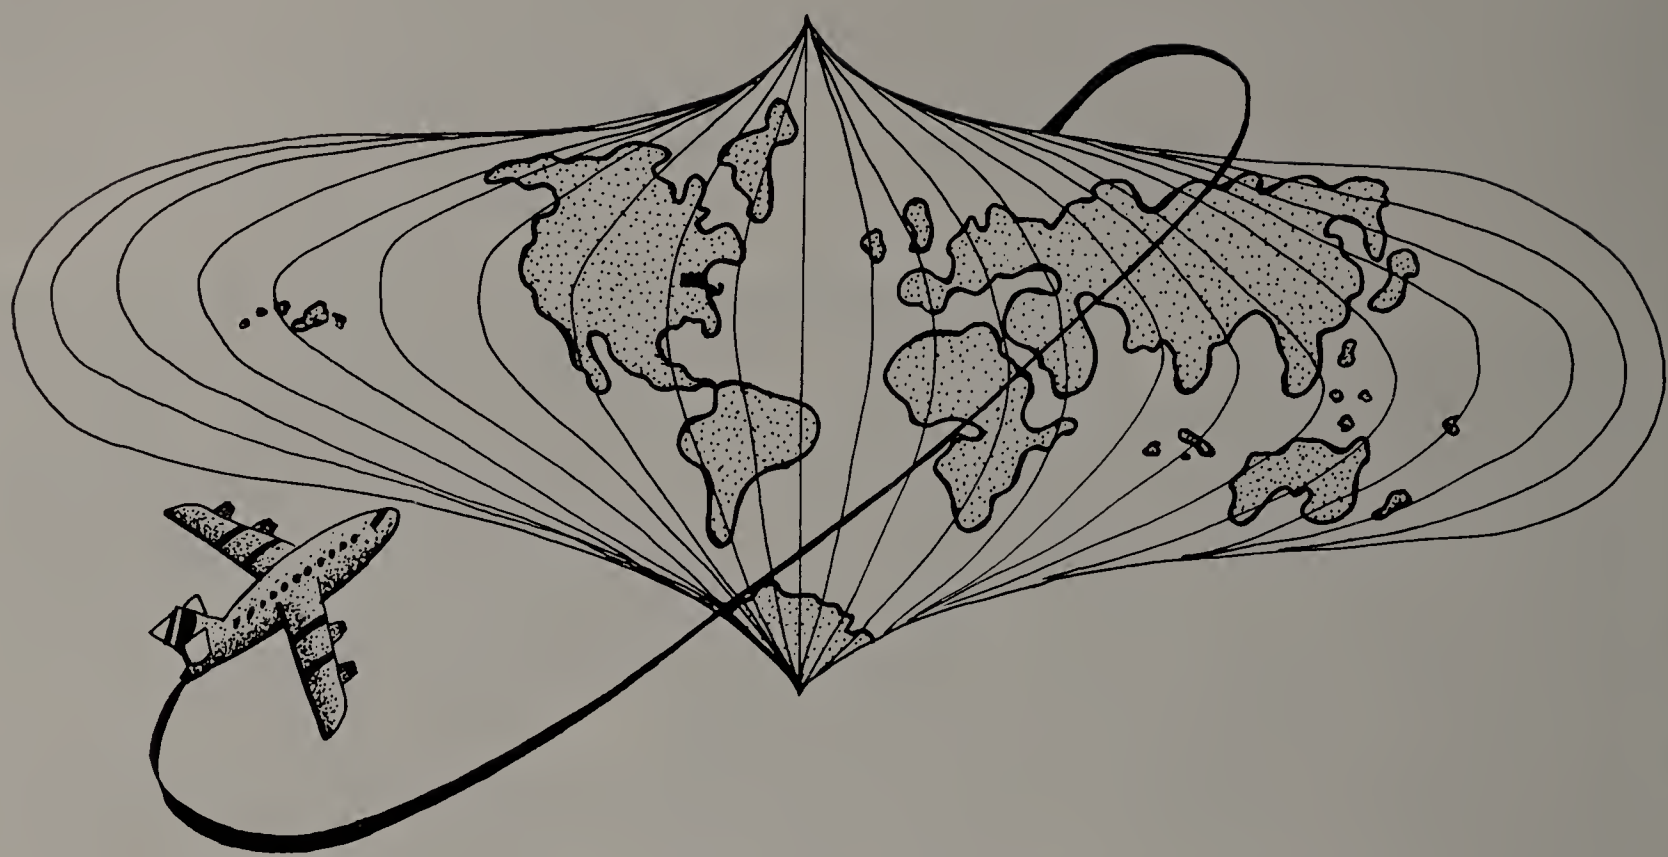
AMERICAN PIE

Getting a taste of it . . . a year's worth



GERMANY: THOMAS HERRMANN

Although I don't like stereotypes, I think that there are such persons as typical Americans and typical Germans. During the first two months here, I couldn't find much of a difference between life here and life in Europe. People have to go to school or work everywhere in the world. But there is a difference in the attitude towards life. That might be caused by the different historical and cultural background.

Europeans are rather fixed to the place they live at and the possibilities to work and to spend your spare time are very important. Americans are more likely to move and to meet new people. That's why it is so bad that we exchange students don't have a car and are stuck in our towns-it's not always easy to get a ride to a friend or to Worcester.

I like how many American students think about their schools. They represent a place for a social life and not only a building to get a textbook education in. In Germany, most students leave school at one o'clock and go home for lunch-here numerous activities are offered. I enjoyed working on the fall's musical production, "The Music Man." In Germany, we have to keep ourselves occupied with our own hobbies. I spent my time on various theatre activities, a youth group, playing the piano, cycling, skiing, and photography.

Since so many people asked me, I want to have it printed: We have no speed limit on our highways and we have McDonalds over there.

SWEDEN: MALIN FORSBERG

Malin Forsberg was born on October 8, 1970 (Libra). She comes to Wachusett from Unea, Sweden. Presently she lives with the Robert Cutler family in Sterling. Her favorite color is black.

Malin likes the area, but wouldn't like to have to grow up here. "There's nothing to do." But she says that she wouldn't mind living here when she reaches her 40's or 50's.

In Unea, she rides her horse, Helly Hansen, everyday. She misses her friends, boyfriend, and Helly Hansen the most. Malin even misses her brother, who she realizes she doesn't hate after all.

Malin considers herself as very open-minded, easygoing, and kind of silly. Her parents brought her up in a free atmosphere with few restrictions. She really appreciates this openess that exists within her family. Malin commented that American kids are brought up in a much stricter manner than in Europe.

In the future, Malin will most probably go to a four year tech school to study chemistry and then to university to study math. She says that she's really into science.

"Get more open-minded," is the advice she would give to Wachusett and America in general. Malin feels that Americans have a difficult time in accepting different and unusual people.

JAPAN: KANO INOUE

When I first came to this school, I was afraid to even say, "Hi! How are you?" I had gone to a private girls school for 12 years. The schools in Japan are very small. And of course, no one speaks Japanese here. I was so nervous, confused, and sometimes homesick.

There are many differences between an American high school and a Japanese one. An American high school is like a Japanese university. We don't have many electives. In Japan, you have one classroom and the same students are together for the same subjects all day. Only the teachers change rooms.

So, because of these differences, it was very difficult for me to adjust. But now I have made many friends and I now understand the school. I am enjoying this American life as an exchange student.

BELGIUM: STEVE WITTEVRONGEL

The first day in school this year was different than other years. Teachers weren't really teachers, they were friends, trying to build a good and open relationship with their students. In Belgium, teachers are more formal and the school system is a lot harder too.

For the first time in my life, I was in a different school, in a different country with different people. But everybody is everybody's friend around here, I felt at home right away.

This is a great experience for me and it gives me the opportunity to have a closer look at the American society we know from television. I got involved in sports, hobbies, pastimes different than ours in Belgium. And I enjoyed it all.

I met a lot of people during my stay at W.R.H.S., these people all became my friends and we had great times together.

Thanks to them, thanks to the school, thanks to my parents and family, I had a fantastic year, a year I will never forget.

One's thoughts on their senior year

1. For some reason, I ate a lot more apples this year. I'd have one three or four times a day. Whenever I could get my hands on one. Genesis 3:5? Who knows.

2. I felt very at home at school. After three years, the school had become mine (mine, mine, all mine, heh, heh, heh,) "Seniors rule is written on every wall with invisible paint (but nevertheless obvious) Seniors walk like gods in the halls.

3. As a result of seniors ruling, I had no one to look up to. Well, sure, there was the Pope, Mikhail Gorbachev, and Mr. Cornaciolli, but no real student that I idolized. What's scary is the thought that I may have been idolized when I'm not at all sure I was worthy of it.

4. Trans-class dating didn't faze me this year. I remember when I was a freshman, it bothered me immensely that a girl in my class whom I lusted after was going out with a Junior. Even las year it bothered me that a Junior was going out with a Senior. This year it was almost a status to date a sophmore. There's something more desirable in young girls.

5. Also, as a Senior, I was pestered all year with questions about my future. "Where are you going to school?" "Where do you want to work?" What really annoyed me is the same people asked me the same questions just to get the same answers, which shows how well they listen.

What consumes us all . . .

Oh wow! It's January, and I haven't sent my college applications yet!' or 'PSAT's, SAT's, what's that?' or the old proverbial question 'What do you want to be when you grow up, JUNIOR?' And the answer 'I don't know', or 'Beats the heck out of me'

Some of us have taken the approach mentioned above, but for the majority, it's been countless hours of preparation, research and search, trial days at the colleges, and tons of anxiety. But really, was it worth a mad rush?

Yes and no. Definitely, a good solid education, plenty of interesting experiences with our teachers and peers, and a working knowledge on many of the 'how to's', the 'what is thats', and the 'where's these'. But no, we didn't need a definite career or position to fill them. A direction, a lot of ideas, and plenty of drive were helpful though. By the way, how's the rest of the world going to perceive us in ten years; as yuppies, preppies, radicals . . . . . who knows!!!

above: So what's it going to be? College, work, or the army?
above right: Kris finishing her HW
middle: Mr. Groom, what town is that school in, East Bugtussle?
right: Jim R. pondering a heavy question.

You cant live with 'em and you cant live without 'em

Remember when . . . we used to take swim lessons and play in the same crib together. I remember a lot of kneecaps anyways . . . standing in line after the recess bell, the boys in one, the girls in another . . . speaking of lines, how 'bout taking a trip with the first grade teacher down to the bathroom with eight others . . . . change, girls still have cooties, and boys are still strange . . . What a change! What's happened? Our conversations, the things we hang on our walls, even are minds are on 100% opposite sex. Well, almost, the boys are still a little behind . . . remember those junior high dances. I had 34 dances that night, how 'bout you . . . arriving at Wachusett, look at all those (boys) (girls). There must be 200 of them, and there all new . . . check that cute one in the red over there . . . remember your parents yelling at you for burning the phone lines too long; three hours . . . how 'bout your first date, first kiss, and your first fight . . . still going out with . How long has it been now? Remember getting a gown or a tux, picking up your favorite in a limo and getting starstruck at the prom . . . seems like it has been forever, but here we are, full of memories and thoughts, some forgettable, and vice versa . . . It's been real, but after all you can't forget the 'ole saying, 'You can't live with them, and you can't live without them!'

Worcester Sheraton-Lincoln

May 23, 1987

May 23 proved to be one of the most popular proms yet, and was sponsored by one of the most character laden classes. Held in nearby Worcester at the Sheraton, almost 500 people were there to enjoy the 'big' night out. Though the weather was rather unsettling (but thinking back, wasn't that whole spring like that), the positive vibes, the smiles, and the overly attractive attire ruled the event. Who is going to forget all those sights, such as seeing some people you've never seen outside of jeans, pants, and T-shirts, or the brightly colored tuxes with paint blotched shirts, or paisleys, or Bob Sachse's bottom wear, or . . . . .

above left: Girls dance only, but just as well. It's too hard to get those guys out on the floor above right: Hey bartender, what's the selection tonight, and who's picking up the tab? top: So Debbie, didn't I tell you we'd be the fairest couple of all?

Rule number # 1;

'You must have fun!'

The day starts, as with this class, with a large number (250) of seniors, still sleepyeyed, boarding busses for Moodus, CT., a two hour haul from here. Once there, we are greeted by a short funny looking man who calls himself coo-coo. Then the fun begins, as the group splits off in 360 different directions. Horseshoes, softball, tennis, and the pool are just a few of the options. Highlights included the great meals, all you can eat, the relays, and the high dive exhibitions. Oh well, and as for the reluctant others (200 of them) who chose not to be explorers for the day in search of a good time, you'll never know what you missed. You had to be there! On these two pages are just a few hints.

Graduation '87

Throughout the last four years and ending on June 6, 1987, was the togetherness, the revved up spirit, a whole set of bright lights, and a lot of warmth. The class of 87 will be remembered long as a class of accomplishment, of warmth, and of diversity. And it can all be summarized in the feelings one received during the graduation ceremonies, the 33rd such at Wachusett. There were over 420 participants to receive diplomas that day along with many other individual awards and the weather couldn't have been nicer. Though the activities of the class of 87 have come to a close, their memories and presence will endure for a long time.

The day featured four speakers. Athena Demetry, the class valedictorian (1), spoke on her individual interpretation of a poem titled "The Answer" by R. Jeffers. Tom Herrmann (2) titled his "One Plus One Will Always Be . . ." and it centered on a United States experience. Lorin Gold (3) spoke on the many merits and variety one can find at Wachusett and entitled it "The Many Aspects of the Fruit Bowl". Deanna Lambert (4) discussed the warm receptions and feelings she received in her years at Wachusett following a stay at the Clark School for Hearing. It was called "An Open Door to a Bright Light".

All the elements . . .

for a great day

"As we move on our memories are worth gold, but the future is worth dreaming about"

The future now awaits

Growing up

The bell rang, the lockers were cleaned and the class of '87 walked away for good. With mixed feelings of anticipation and fear we go forward to the future. We eagerly move toward our freedom and independence, racing to continue on. Yet part of us wants to stay behind, and remember our high school days, and our friends. Sometimes we're not so sure we're ready to grow up, and handle the responsibilities of life. But we are young, free, and a whole world waits before us. Senior year was filled with many pressures, including colleges, finances, scholarships, an maintaining grades. However it was also filled with liberties and a promise of greater autonomy. It seems the more freedom we get the more responsibility we take on.

Looking on and looking back, growing up, and staying a child; It's just part of growing up.

In perspective

Taking part . .

The simple fact is this: if you haven't participated in some extra-curricular activity by the time you graduate, you probably haven't enjoyed much of high school or learned' very much. Extra-curriculars are not just limited to varsity sports and Wachusett clubs. From taking a painting course at the Worcester Art Museum to being called "outstanding" by the O.E.A.; from biking on weekends to going to Hyannis with the Student Council, you can experience anything, feel anything, be anything (imagine that!): you can learn.

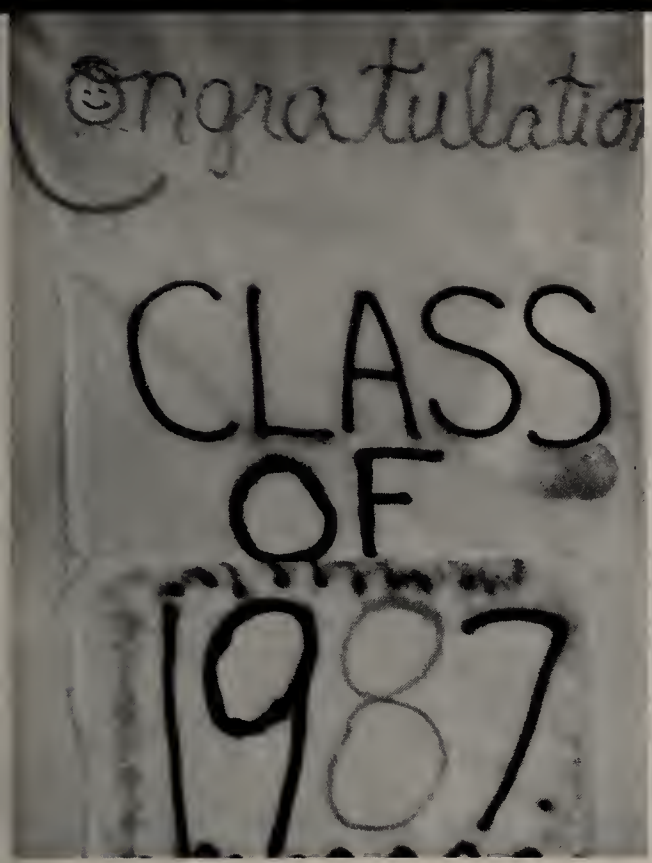
In the past years there have been many arguments concerning school-sponsored activities. If you, as captain and #1 player of the tennis team fail a course, should you be removed from the team? Should school funds be made available to teams and clubs, or should the members of these groups pay to participate? Although these questions may only concern those who have an interest in the activities available through Wachusett, the answers are found by examining all the hobbies and interests that anyone participates in.

We have all heard (and groaned about) the expressions like "These are the best days of your life!" "Highschool is the biggest learning experience of your life!" But instead of looking critically at the parent or administrator who says this, thinking "You, evidently, did not go to highschool . . . ", try to figure out why they are saying these things. Let's not even touch the first one- who knows what the best days of your life are going to be? And if those days are consumed by four 180 days periods, what's the point of living after high-school? Somehow I don't think that idea quite works. Highschool is a learning experience, certainly. Where else would you learn that Massachusetts has 13 letters and therefore Mr. Corriveau doesn't enjoy it as much as he could, or that not keeping your eyes on your own paper doesn't necessarily hurt you in the long run . . . But besides the academics, when is the next time you will be able to live cheaply in a house while skiing every weekend, making (at least) the chorus of every play, and go to New York for the weekend for $200. And since you've got the chance why not take full advantage of it? Learn all you can you will probably learn more about yourself by running seven miles or running a meeting than by trying to figure out how quickly Pete can run while the wind is blowing 10.7 miles into his face.

So, to those who are in the power to take away school-sponsored activities, the car or any other of these privileges, tell them "Wait! This is education you're depriving me of!" Then hand them this article and tell them to read the first and last sentences. Because all of you agree, I'm sure that high school just as school and homework would be much more than even the most scholarly among us could deal with.

RITUALS

Seniors!!! Senior week, and tradition. What does that mean? Besides all the built up anticipation of ending a four year duration here, it could mean tying loose ends, or taking dreaded finals. Some of the crazier events of those last days are the senior hall, the 'selling' of Wachusett, looking for those freshmen, etc. Where were you?



SENIOR WEEK

Making Our Mark
MOUNTAINEER

SUDDENLY SENIOR !!

by Chris Brown

Senior Prom, Senioritis, Senior Hall of Doom, Senior Citizens, Sammy Davis Senior, Senor, seen your, seen my, seen this, seen that, seen all of these eventually, you have, if you have ever been a student (or a senior, for that matter). The senior --- that big guy in the sky, the epitome of his class*, that bastion of academics, of athletics, of general good will and cheer, of all that collectively rests under the sacred name of Wachusett Regional High School!

O! Thrill to the zany, madcap cast of characters from this, the senior class o' ours! Watch them as you take a pleasant stroll through our elegantly adorned halls! Don't worry, they won't bite! They're safely kept behind bars of dignity, honor, and royalty. Go ahead. Touch one! That's it. Just don't feed 'em!

Ah, to be a senior! To be able to throw off school's weighty chains for a lifetime (well, at least three months, anyway) of true freedom a full three weeks before any of the lower classes (turn up and crinkle nose, look away with a glare of superiority). To know the meaning of youth as no other! The power! The glory! The mini-series!

But sooner or later, these kings and queens, ladies and lords of the student body must surrender their positions. And this is where the rest of us gladly enter. With eager faces, each former Junior Class member eventually is handed down the honor of being the king of the hill, the top of the heap! The Sophomores and Freshmen each get a somewhat hungrier stare as they step up one notch, envious of what they soon will have.

Oh, we'll miss you, sure! But for now, we, those whom you leave behind, eagerly raise our hands in parting, and wave —

Good-bye!

* Thanks to Erik Jones of the Junior Class for this interesting idiom.

In Appreciation

Mr. J. Farley
Mr. R Caouette

Most students probably don't realize the importance of class advisors. The extra time and "gray hairs" they receive from tedious, yet hopefully enjoyable hours. Therefore to these Special people, the class of 1987 would like to say "Thank You."

- To Mr. Farley and Mrs. Plaza for their expertise in all important financial matters.

- To Mr. Caouette for all his time, ideas, and dedication he showed in designing the most memorable proms, prize winning floats, and yearbooks.

- To Mrs. Wreschinsky for giving hours of her spare time in helping prepare for our proms, and to Mr. W for helping with those ever enjoyable dances.

- To Dr. Pandiscio for his encouragement and inspiration in creating spirit and drive in our class.

- To Mr. Swanson for bearing the boring hours of chaperoning our dances.

- And to Mr. O'Rourke for preparing the memorable Freshman Cookout!

Mrs. B. Wreschinsky
Mrs. J. Plaza

Dr. T. Pandiscio

Mr. R. Swanson
Mr. J. O'Rourke

Lest we not forget . . .

Our past four years at Wachusett have been tremendous, but we would have never made it without our advisors and a few EXTRA SPECIAL people. We would like to extend our warmest thanks and appreciations to the following people for their contributions.

Mr. & Mrs. Leroux - Thanks for all your great ideas and allowing us to clutter your barn with our floats for the past four years.

Mr. Olsen - Thanks for permitting us to use your flat bed for the past three years.

Mr. Bonnell - Thanks for your time and ideas in building our prize winning float this past year.

Mr. & Mrs. Cranford - Thanks for letting us construct our very first Homecoming float on your property.

Mr. & Mrs. Clark - Thanks for your help in planning and designing our junior prom invitations.

There are countless others who have assisted us over the four years, thank you also.

Time has flown
On the wings of youth
We have grown
And learned what it means to care
And to cry
And to love
They have given us lessons on math and history and life
Preparing us for the future
But now we must walk away
From the halls where we have learned so much
We must leave behind a childhood
And learn from our mistakes
In time we may forget the games and dances and classes
But we will never forget those friends
Who gave us a shoulder to cry on
And a hand to clasp
The people who will live forever
In our memories
Forever young
And happy
The smiling faces of youth
And all that is good
And optimistic
We are tomorrow
The world is ours
To explore
And discover
And so to all of us who are beginning our tomorrow
Remember today
And all the lessons we have learned
And choose our paths wisely
But most of all be happy
And take what life and love have offered us

All as One

Off to college in a single leap, hoping to prosper enough to own my own black Bimmer. My classmates, they travel east and west, some north or south, but until the end of time we will always be thought of as one, the Class of 1987.

In all our minds we will remember Mr. Lane's morning announcements that wasted, in total, about 60 hours of class time during the past four years. Most of us slept or talked during them, never really listening to the thought and effort that was put into each message.

And then there was lunch. The motto "School food is good food", should be changed to "School food was once good food." The quality of the food, however, never stopped any football player from buying a quadruple lunch. The main focal point of lunch was not to eat but to socialize. Lunch was the gossip hour. The seating arrangement at lunch was probably the most organized set up at Wachusett. Everyone seemed to have their own personal seat, or if you were Otis your name was on the seat. We would all sit in the same seat regardless if we were mad at the person next to us. It was just a matter of tradition.

Over the last four years, the Class of 1987 has been outstanding in everything from slam dunks to Homecoming floats. We have, in fact, become a large family. We may all have different labels like Jocks, Punks, Smoking Area People, or Dead Heads yet not any one of us is better than the other. We all are as one, we're number one, the Class of 1987. Don't ever lose faith.
